ANSWER

MINISTER OF STATE FOR ELECTRONICS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY
(SHRI SANJAY DHOTRE)

(a) to (d): Google Maps provides online maps images based on techno- commercial considerations and the services are provided based on term and conditions agreed by its users. As per Google policy, in countries where Google has local versions of Google Map (such as India), it complies with local law when displaying names and borders. Any misrepresentation or infringement of any law of the country can be dealt by the law enforcement agencies.

Further, section 69A of the Information Technology Act, 2000 empowers Government to block any information generated, transmitted, received, stored or hosted in any computer resource in the interest of sovereignty and integrity of India, defence of India, security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States or public order or for preventing incitement to the commission of any cognizable offence relating to above.

(e) and (f) : The figures of market share and users of Google Maps are not maintained by Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology.
